PROBE CRASH AT KNICKERBOCKER NOW UNDER WAY

To Investigate Every Phase of Tragedy Saturday Night

NECESSARY TEST MADE

All Bodies Out of Debris—All Social Functions Postponed—Sixteen Virginians of Former Residents Killed

Washington, Jan. 31.—The possibility that the number of dead in the Knickerbocker Theater tragedy might be less than 100 was seen today after the police had completed a recheck of all names in the earlier casualty lists and had made thorough inquiry covering undertaking establishments and hospitals. As a result of their investigation, it was thought the death list so far as definitely ascertained now stood at ninety-five.

Ten names in the lists heretofore given of the dead were tentatively stricken out pending more definite knowledge of these persons. The ten had been listed as "address unknown" and there had been no inquiries by relatives or friends for such persons. These were: W. N. Crawford, Albert Baker F. H. Hall, Paulus Lamby, L. L. Lehler, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Maine, D. N. Walsh, Miss M. E. Walsh and a Mrs. Davis.

Washington, Jan. 31.—Investigation of the cause of the Knickerbocker Theater disaster, which caused the death of more than 100 persons, was begun today by several agencies of the District of Columbia government, with the probability that the Senate and House also might undertake exhaustive inquiries.

The Senate is expected to act tomorrow on a resolution by Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, calling for an investigation of the catastrophe by a committee. Despite the announcement of Representative Mondell, Republican leader, that the House would not authorize an inquiry until District of Columbia officials have concluded their investigations, Representative Ryan, Republican, New York, charging that the collapse of the roof was due to faulty construction and would not have occurred had there been proper inspection, offered a resolution proposing an investigation.

District of Columbia commissioners declared they would go into every phase of the tragedy, which occurred Saturday night when the roof, weighted with snow, fell on an audience of several hundred not only for the purpose of fixing the blame, but, also guarding against possible recurrence of such calamities.

Colonel Charles Keller, engineer commissioner, after making a personal survey of the wreckage, declared he believed the cave-in was caused by a defect in material at some point of the roof's support. He stated, however, that it would be impossible now to determine whether there had been any defect in material.

Plans for the support of the roof Colonel Keller asserted, indicate that the capacity for weight was greatly in excess of any requirement in a a climate like Washington's.

Building Inspector Healey also was of the opinion that plans for the construction of the roof were sound and practical, and that the necessary tests following construction had been met.

Preliminary to an investigation of the disaster, the Federal grand jury went to the scene of the tragedy and examined the wreckage today Witnesses will be called before the jury without delay, it was said, in an effort to fix blame.

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt, declaring he would spare no effort to placing responsibility, requested Peyton Gordon, district attorney, to ask the War Department to assign expert engineers to the task of determining the cause of the roof collapse. Mr. Gordon said he would seek such assistance.

Convinced that all bodies had been removed from the debris, the search for dead was halted today by officials in charge of rescue work which had gone on continuously for forty-eight hours. The last body was removed from the wreckage late last night. Inspector Healey ordered the walls of the theatre razed at once as a safety precaution. Unfounded reports that the walls had collapsed, killing men in the rescue party, were spread broadcast today, causing much excitement.

Careful recheck of the dead indicated last night that if no more of the injured died, the death toll would be 105. Reports that three additional persons had died were unverified. This would bring the total to 108 with possibility that it might be increased by additional deaths. A dozen persons in hospitals were reported in critical condition last night, although E. H. Shaughnessy, Second Assistant Postmaster-General, was said to be greatly improved. More than 100 persons sustained injuries of more than a minor nature and were taken to hospitals.

The tragedy caused the postponement today of practically all social affairs planned for the week. President and Mrs. Harding were to have been the honor guests of the Ohio Society at a reception tonight, but at the President's request the affair was postponed. Mr. Harding informed those in charge of arrangements that he preferred to omit a social affair while Washington was suffering from the great shock. Attorney General Daugherty also postponed a dinner he had planned to give for the President and Mrs. Harding Wednesday night.

Sixteen Virginians or former residents of the State, died when the concrete and steel girdered roof of the Knickerbocker Theater, Washington collapsed under its weight of snow ice and water, a revised list of the dead showed last night. Four of the victims were women.

Search thrice thy Heart and thrice thy Soul again;
Thus shalt thou know the Minds of Other Men.

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

(From our Special Correspondent.)

Washington, Jan. 31.—Washington has not yet recovered from the terrible disaster resulting from the cave in of the Knickerbocker Theatre. The Gazette correspondent was on the job shortly after the catastrophe occurred. He has been through many disasters of a similar nature but the heartrending scenes enacted at Eighteenth and Columbia Road will forever be impressed upon his memory. There were mothers, fathers, lovers and daughters, all anxiously awaiting word from their loved ones who were classed among the missing or who were pinioned in the great mass of debris which had to be removed before any signs of recognition or life could be discovered.

One of the most striking evidences of rescue work was shown by the United States Army. Troopers from Fort Myer, Va., were on hand early and in conjunction with the officials of the fire and police departments of the District of Columbia they performed valiant service in rescuing the dead and injured, not to speak of the many maimed who were hustled to the various hospitals there to be relieved of their injured limbs, legs, arms, and other vital parts. He would have been a hard character who would not have withered under the mental strain, the nerve shock and temperamental undoing of an eye witness to the greatest tragedy which has ever befallen the National Capital. Not only the nation but the world at large is in mourning today for the disaster which has overtaken Washington. The President of the United States has spoken feeble words of sympathy—the Congress of the United States has sent out its message to the world indicating its determination to investigate. But what does an investigation amount to? There are the lives of over a hundred, men, women and children, who cannot be recalled to earth despite the most thorough probe into the result of the disaster. Investigations are rather futile in such an emergency. If they fix the blame, they do not restore life. So what is the reason for all such investigations? The dead and the dying are with us, the Knickerbocker Theatre has been destroyed and crane hangs upon the doors of most of the residents in the vicinity of the theatre. They were victims, their remains are about to be interred in sanctified ground, but their friends, their relatives, are left to mourn. There were some of the most prominent newspaper men in the United States who were victims of this terrible tragedy. The Gazette correspondent knew each one intimately. He had talked to most of them as early as Saturday morning, never thinking that this would be the last time he would see them as mortal beings. It's going to be a long time before Washington gets over this visitation of Providence which it must be. The nerves and the sympathies of the National Capital go out in earnest prayer for those left behind, with the wish and the hope that despite the terrible calamity visited upon Washington there may be recompense in the fact that it may have been worse.

The Senate of the United States may have disposed of the Newberry case, but the Democrats evidently have not. They are preparing to make it a leading issue in the coming campaign. Already the Democratic National Committee is devoting energetic publicity to the case.

It seems to be a certainty that the Newberry case will be brought before the voters of the country to plague those Republican Senators who voted for Newberry and who are up for re-election. There is no doubt that the seat of Senator Townsend, of Michigan, Republican who is seeking re-election, is in danger. Townsend was one of the most ardent supporters of Newberry in his contest before the Senate. But Townsend will have to face the combined opposition of the independents in his own state, together with the powerful influence wielded by Henry Ford. Ford, in the judgment of many Americans may be only a plain ordinary American, without great knowledge, but he wields vast power in his native state and is sure to be heard from before the Senatorial election is over.

SNOW CLEANERS GREATLY AIDED BY STRONG SUN

Force of 200 Men Now Engaged By City in Task

FIRE HYDRANTS CLEAR

Intersections Now Being Cleared of Snow—Big Force Removes Snow From Around City Hall.

The work accomplished thus far by the extra street cleaning force engaged in the stupendous task of opening of the streets of the big snow includes clearing the approaches to practically every fire hydrant in the city and the clearing of the intersections on the principal streets.

City Engineer Dunn stated today that he has 200 men on the job. The task is such a big one, however, that the work accomplished thus far is hardly noticeable.

The first achievement was cleaning a passageway on King street from end to end in the center end which resulted in the cars of the Washington-Virginia Railway Company being able to operate while this was being done another force also was hard at work opening up the approaches to the fire plugs.

The majority of those engaged in removing the snow today are clearing the snow from around the city hall building. The snow from around this is being placed in cars, carts and wagons and carried off to the dump pile.

The sun has greatly aided in the softening the snow and considerably aided the workmen in their job.

King street with snow banked on both sides between the car tracks presented the appearance of an arctic scene. Some of the snow on this thoroughfare was loaded on flat cars of the Washington-Virginia Railway Company and dumped into Hunting Creek. The idea of disposing of the snow by putting it into the sewers has been abandoned, as it was feared the sewers would become clogged, and today carts were used to haul the snow from the various intersections.

The officials in charge are of the opinion that if this weather continues they will be greatly aided in their work in removing the snow.

The task is one of the biggest that has confronted the city in many years street cleaning department has had and the force is one of the largest the street cleaning department has had for many years.

City council will meet tomorrow night for the purpose of passing on the amount to be appropriated for this work.

RICHMOND FIRE

Richmond, Va., Jan. 31.—Groping their way blindly through dense clouds of smoke on aerial ladders and fire escapes, firemen confined flames that threatened an entire block in the heart of Richmond's warehouse district to the plant of the Christo Manufacturing Company, Inc., at 1004-1008 East Cary Street, last night. Chief Joynes estimated the property loss at $20,000. This was confirmed by James R. Blackwell, secretary-treasurer of the company.

Chief Joynes came to the scene on the first alarm. Within fifteen minutes he had ordered a second alarm and third alarm turned in, summoning nine engine and two truck companies to the fire. All other available apparatus was ordered "moved up" to be held in readiness for an emergency call.

Water caused the principal damage to stock, and valuable machinery installed on the third and fourth stories of the building is not thought to be materially damaged.

FELLED BY WOMAN

Widow Relieved of $240 After Being Knocked Unconscious

New York, Jan. 30.—A woman bandit today entered a Seventh-street butcher shop, felled Mrs. Bebecca Bell, the widowed proprietor, with the butt of a revolver, took $240 from Mrs. Bell's stocking and escaped.

Mrs. Bell was found unconscious an hour after the holdup. She said the woman ordered two chickens and that when she turned her back to prepare them she felt a revolver at the back of her head. The robber threatened her with death if she made an outcry, she said, then struck her down when she turned about.

ROOF CAVES IN

One Car in Garage at 115 South Lee Street Smashed

The roof of a one-story brick garage operated by Sutton and Travers at 115 South Lee street, caved in Sunday night and smashed a comparatively new touring car and did othed damage. The weight of the snow combined with the fact that the structure was old probably was responsible for the crash. The garage had a gable roof.

AT RICHMOND LEGISLATION

The Senate was called to order yesterday at noon by President Buchanan with prayer by Rev. George E. Booker.

Senator Beverley presented a resolution suggesting an amendment to the Constitution in regard to the proposed oath that no man should be allowed to hold office unless he would swear that he had not violated the prohibition laws. The paper was sent to the Committee four courts of Justice.

The Senate, on motion of Senator Booker, went into executive session at 12:30. It adjourned at 2:30 o'clock after confirming nominations of sixty-three appointments by the Governor.

Resumption of the joint legislative investigation into affairs of the State Highway affairs, including the commission and commissioner, is scheduled for 10 o'clock this morning in the agricultural museum in the Capitol.

It is expected that the Auditor of Public Accounts will present a detailed statement of all expenditures of the Highway Department as was frequently requested by the committee through Chairman Harry Flood Byrd. This statement will open a new avenue of investigation for the committee, which up to date has failed to make any considerable headway either in showing extravagance or incompetency.

Two big delegations of road enthusiasts, from Southwest Virginia, appeared before the joint roads committee of the Senate and House yesterday afternoon in regard to a proposed change in the Senate Highway system affecting Wise, Dickenson and Buchanan Counties. Senate bill 55, carrying into effect recommendations of the Highway Commission and Commissioner Coleman regarding changes in the system, provides in section 11, for a connection from Claypoole Hill via. Raven to Grundy, in the interest of which change a delegation from Buchanan, headed by Delegate Stinson, appeared. Delegate Dotson, former Delegate Roland E. Chase, former Senator Bruce, and Lee Long, coal operator, headed another delegation favoring the retention of the route chosen in 1918, which would take the road to Grundy by Clintwood and Coeburn. The committee decided against the latter Wise and Dickenson delegation and in favor of the route proposed via, Raven, in the present bill.

Fourteen bills a majority of them local in their application, were passed by the House of Delegates yesterday, and a large number of bills were advanced to their engrossment and third reading.

The House passed the Hall bill prohibiting the wearing of Confederate crosses of honor and American Legion emblems by any except those entitled to do so. Delegate Gordon cast the lone vote in the negative.

Educational measures held the attention of the House for a considerable part of the day's session, but the compulsory education bill, now on its second reading, again was passed by. Discussion was rather general of the Williams bill giving all county and city governing bodies the right to levy a local capitation tax of $1 for school purposes, a power many of them already possess by special legislation. Lindsay Gordon, of Louisa, led the opposition, but the measure was advanced to its third reading and is now in position for passage.

Court Action to Lay Blame For Roof Crash

Washington, D. S., Jan. 31.—Court house circles are prepared for the filing of many damage suits growing out of the Knickerbocker Theater. A number of these will be for deaths, the maximum amount which can be recovered under this head being $10,000. The law does not fix any limit for injuries. Cases of this kind are tried before a jury.

The question of responsibility in the disaster not yet having been fixed plaintiffs who are filing suits for the recovery of damages will name among the defendants either the District of Columbia, the District Commissioners the building inspector, the owners of the property, the lessees, the general managers, the architect, the builders, the contractors and subcontractors, the first which supplied the material, or the bonding companies which underwrote the architect and contractors insuring that the building would be erected in accordance with legal requirements.

It is contended by some of the legal fraternity that if the building at its completion was officially inspected by the building inspector of the District and passed by him as being in keeping with the regulations, that the responsibility rests with the District and the building inspector; that his approval releases the architect and the builders and owners of all responsibility.

Bible Thought for Today

Let the wicked forsake his way, and the unrighteous man his thoughts: and let him return unto the Lord, and he will have mercy upon him: and our God, for he will abundantly pardon. — Isaiah 55:7.

TRINKLE TO BE INAUGURATED TOMORROW

Ceremonies Will Be Held In Hall of House of Delegates

SNOW CHANGES PLANS

Parade of Military Units Is Called Off —Senators Will be Unable to Attend.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 31.—Former State Senator E. L Trinkle, of Wytheville and forer State Senator J. E. West, of Suffolk, will be inaugurated as Governor and Lieutenant-Governor of Virginia at 12 o'clock, noon, tomorrow in the hall of the House of Delegates. The program calling for the ceremonies to be held in public view on an improvised platform on the south portico of the State Capitol Building, and the parade incident thereto, was abandoned yesterday when it became apparent that it would be impossible to remove the snow in order to permit the public to gather on the greens of the Capitol grounds.

Lieutenant-Governor J. E. West will be sworn in first. The oath will be administered by his brother, Judge Jesse F. West, of the Supreme Court of Appeals. Immediately thereafter Governor E. Lee Trinkle will take the oath, which will be administered by Judge Joseph L. Kelly, president of the Supreme Court of Appeals.

Governor Trinkle will then deliver his inaugural address.

Telegrams yesterday afternoon from Washington announced that Senator Claude A. Swanson, and Senator Carter Glass, both of whom had expected to attend the ceremonies in Richmond, would not be able to come because of the fact that each of the Senators desire to be present when the farmers' co-operative marketing bill comes up in the Senate. It is scheduled to follow the refunding bills, which are almost out of the way.

Friends of the incoming officials are arriving from every section of the State to attend the inaugural ceremonies tomorrow. Only those with tickets will be admitted to the Capitol Building. Tickets have been issued to take up the entire seating and standing room permitted under the laws, and guards will be at each entrance to prevent those without tickets from entering.

THE WILSON FOUNDATION

Branch to be Organized Thursday Night at Chamber of Commerce

H. R. Burke Will Preside—Officers to be Chosen and Plans Muffed Out

A branch of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation will be organized in this city at a meeting which will be held at 8 o'clock Thursday night in the rooms of the chamber of commerce. The meeting will be presided over by H. R. Burke, president of common council. All interested in the establishment of this foundation, both men and women, are cordially invited to attend. A brief sketch of the purpose of the foundation will be given by Mr. Burke.

Afterward a president, secretary and treasurer will be elected and in addition plans will be mapped out for the soliciting of funds for the foundation.

Discussing the matter today Mr. Burke said: "This expression of appreciation of Mr. Wilson's services to mankind and his foresight deserves some recognition after the rebuff he has rceived by the world.

Despite the unpropitious weather prevailing just now I trust that many as can will attend this meeting and help show their appreciation of the splendid work of our former President Woodrow Wilson."

Alexandrians Named

Sixty-three appintments to the state boards and commission made during the past two years were confirmed yesterday by the Virginia State Senate in which only three names were contested. Mayor J. M. Duncan is named on the board of charities and corrections, and Dr. Kate Waller Barrett is named on the board to the College of William and Mary.

VIRGINIA NEWS PARAGRAPHED

Newport News—Bearing marks of her fight with what her crew described as "one of the worst hurricane ever seen off the Virginia coast," the tanker Robert H. Hopkins came into port today. The tanker went aground Thursday on Wimble Shoals, but worked itself off with little damage.

Purcellville—Another important step has been made toward the realization of a new schoolhouse here. Five and one half acres of land have been purchased from T. D. Dillon for the new site. The lot is in a beautiful location and it is thought it will be entirely satisfactory to all the patrons. Plans are being prepared for the new building and it is hoped that the contract for construction will be given this spring.

Norfolk—Fire, which started in the third floor of the Tabb Building in Main Street at 6:15 o'clock last night caused damage estimated at $75,000. The fire loss was practically all on the third floor and the roof, but the other two floors were badly damaged by water.

Danville—"Joe Turner, Washington, D. C.," to whom a barrel of corn liquor was consigned from Axton will not receive the precious gift, State Prohibition Agent W. T. Shelton has knocked the head of the barrel out and the liquor soaked into the soil of Henry County.

Danville—The severe snowstorm, lasting without a pause for 38 hours, left Danville with two feet of snow and with structural damage estimated at several thousand dollars as result of cave ins due to the unusual weight of its covering. This material damage with the loss resulting from stagnation of business, featured the visitation of winter here.

Charlottesville—The Wilson Foundation booths in the local banks were closed yesterday, after having been kept running for two weeks. To date slightly over $750 has been collected. The quota was $1 000. Subscriptions will still be received, and it is believed by the committee that the quota will yet be oversubscribed.

Warrenton— Another attempted burglary at Ullman's store this morning at 3:30 was foiled by Russell Rector, an employe sleeping above the store, who fired several times, causing the robber to leave empty-handed Entrance was made by breaking the plate glass door as before. Of four members of a gang arrested for alleged previous robberies of this store and others, three broke jail some time ago and have never been recaptured.

Winchester—Miss Selena Dortch left Berryville today for Washington to claim the body of her sister Miss Helen Dortch, government employe killed in Saturday night's theater disaster. Funeral services will be held Wednesday. Miss Dortch was the daughter of the late Judge Dortch, of Greensboro, N. C.

Pulaski. —A 7 year old son of Leonard Maberry, a tenant on a county farm, began suffering with his left eye following the experience of looking into the barrel of an air rifle and pulling the trigger. It was not known there was anything in the weapon, but when the pain could not be alleviated by treatment the lad was taken to the hospital in Roanoke where an operation was performed for the removal of the eye in which was found completely embedded a small screw.

Pulaski—A movement has been inaugurated for building an electric car line across Carroll County from Jackson's Ferry, where connection is made with the Norfolk and Western to Mount Airy, N. C., a distance of about forty miles A preliminary organization was effected at a meeting held at Hillsville by electing E. W. Early, chairman; W. L. Martin, secretary, and G. C. Skaggs, engineer with a committee comprised of L. C Kebb, S. F. Landreth, B. G. Wilkinson and B. P. Goad. Steps will be taken at a meeting to be held February 4 looking to secure a charter for a company.

Richmond—Much interest is being manifested in good roads circles over a House bill introduced by Delegate Boyd Richards, of Winchester which would distribute 50 per cent of the automobile license fees among the counties to be expended under the sole supervision of the local road authorities in such way as they may see fit. The remaining 50 per cent would be left on the State highway fund. The bill was referred to the Committee on Roads.

TO BE BURIED HERE

Thomas Fleming and Son and Daughter Victims of Knickerbocker Crash

The body of Thomas Fleming, and his daughter, Miss Mary Lee Fleming and his son, John Patton Fleming who were killed Saturday night in the Knickerbocker Theater crash in Washington, will be brought here tomorrow and buried in the Presbyterian cemetery. All are former residents of this city. The funeral services will be held at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church.

END OF ARMS CONFERENCE IS NOW IN SIGHT

Japan Yields On Shantung and Pact Finished

EFFECT COMPROMISE

Japan Agrees With U. S., on Fortifications in The Pacific—World Issue is Settled

Washington, D. C., Jan. 31.—Two of the major problems remaining before the arms conference have been finally settled—Shantung, and the Pacific fortifications.

As a consequence, the end of the arms conference is in sight.

Settlement of the question of fortifications in the Pacific means that the five-power naval treaty—under the terms of which the United States, Great Britain, Japan, Italy and France agree to limit armament on the sea—is complete.

Secretary Hughes has summoned a plenary session of the conference to meet tomorrow morning, at which time the terms of the treaty will be formally announced to the world.

The Shantung agreement deals with the way in which the Tsinan-Tsingtao Railway properties will be transferred from Japan to China. It was the one point relating to Shantung which had not previously been settled, and the one on which disagreement had brought about a deadlock. Its effect will be to take the Japanese out of the Shantung peninsula completely within five years.

The Shantung matter, technically, was not before the arms conference. It was the subject of direct negotiations between the Chinese and the Japanese delegates, arranged by Secretary Hughes and Arthur J. Balfour, in the role of mediators. It was, nevertheless, a matter for deepest concern to the conference, and the failure to agree had delayed the conclusion of deliberations. Had an agreement not been reached, the entire success of the conference would have been imperiled.

Here are the major points of the Shantung settlement:

1. China is to purchase the railway properties with Chinese treasury notes in deferred payments extending over a period of fifteen years with an option to buy out-right in five years.

2. China is to have control of the railroad through a Chinese managing director—a Japanese traffic manager will be subject to the Chinese managing director.

3. China and Japan will each have an accountant, with equal powers.

The agreement was reached in a session that lasted for more than six hours yesterday. It is, according to the delegates, a real agreement and needs only to be reduced to written form. Another session of the delegations will be held today.

The Hughes-Balfour compromise proposal furnished the basis for reaching common ground. This was offered when the delegates had been unable to agree among themselves. President Harding had interested himself in bringing about acceptance of the compromise.

The delegations made no formal announcement of their agreement. This, they thought, might be done by Hughes and Balfour, since they had brought the negotiations about.

Chinese spokesmen said the Chinese would avail themselves of the option to buy the railwa in five years. Money already is being collected for that purpose, they said. The Japanese joint control would thereupon terminate.

The Chinese, in accepting the compromise, yielded on their desire to have complete and immediate restoration of the railway. The Japanese desired a greater share in control, contending their interests in China warranted this.

The Shantung question has been a world issue ever since the peace conference in Paris, when the former German leasehold was awarded to the Japanese. The award was a factor in bringing about American repudiation of the treaty of Versailles. Had the Japanese refused to get out at the present conference the success of the arms conference treaties in the Senate would have been in doubt.

Clearing away of the two questions—Shantung and fortifications—leaves only matters partaining to the far East, and details of no great importance, to be settled. Chief among the remaining issues is the discussion of the "twenty-one demands" and progress has been made toward harmony in this direction.

One Cent Damages

Washington, Jan. 30.—John Armstrong Chaloner, of Merry Mills, Va., won a verdict for 1 cent today from the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in his civil damage suit against the Washington Post. The case came up for retrial here, a verdict for $10,000 rendered in 1916 in favor of Chaloner having been reversed by the Supreme Court.

SENATOR SWANSON'S SPEECH

One of the most illuminating speeches in the Senate for a long time is the speech recently delivered by Senator Swanson. It treats of reduction of taxation, reduction of expenses, disarmament, and the preservation of peace, as among the pressing problems of the day. In 1910, says the Senator, our annual national income was estimated by the highest authority to be thirty billions of dollars. The Federal Government collected in taxes at that time about 3 per cent of that sum for its purposes. The national annual income is now placed at fifty billions, of which the Government takes ten per cent for its expenses. That is, the people are now taxed three times as much of their annual earnings as they were ten or twelve years ago. The annual wealth has increased less than two-fold and the taxes more than five-fold. Local, state and federal taxes consume more than one-sixth of the peoples' annual earnings. "This," says the Senator, "is so excessive that it ceases to be taxation and becomes extortion."

Prior to the World War, England expended in taxes nine per cent of her annual earnings, and has augmented that sum to twenty-two per cent. France, prior to the War, expended sixteen per cent, against forty per cent at present. Italy, formerly expended thirteen per cent, while she now collects thirty per cent. Germany expended eight per cent, as against twenty-three per cent today.

Senator Swanson informs us that only seven per cent of our expenditures are made to meet the civil functions of government, while thirty-eight per cent go to the cost of our army and navy. He says that but for this last expense, that is, the fear of another war, all taxes could be abolished by the Federal Government except those derived from cigars and tobacco. We learn that on September 14, 1921, the most important nations of the world had approximately six million men in active military service, this figure exclusive of millions of trained reserves who could be called to the colors forthwith.

The Battle of Blenheim, one of the decisive battles of Europe, was won by Marlborough with less than 50,000 men. Waterloo, another decisive battle, was won by Wellington and Blucher with about a hundred thousand men. Whereas the World War, engaged in by twenty-two nations, comprising nine-tenths of the world's population, exacted a toll of 9,980,000 men killed and more than twenty million wounded, to which should be added nearly six million prisoners and missing. In all the wars prior to 1913 and subsequent to 1790, the total loss was less than five million. The total cost of the World War, as stated by Professor Ernest L. Bogart, of the University of Illinois, was more than 208 billions of dollars.

Senator Swanson expresses himself as hopeful of splendid results from the so-called Disarmament Conference. He gives his reasons therefor, which appear sound and logical. The speech is unusually informative and clear in its statements and we congratulate our Senator on its forceful delivery in the United States Senate.

KEEN INTEREST IN PRICE CUT

Whole Country Anxious to Learn Amount of Dodge Brothers Reduction

Dealer Here Tells of Elaborate Preparations for Big Business News Out February 1.

What is the purchase price? ?

This slight but important alteration seems to have been made in the famous slogan spread broadcast by Dodge Brothers a few months ago. The change was brought about by the most persistent epidemic of public curiosity since the time when Dodge Brothers first announced that they were about to market a car and then refused to tell what kind of a car it was going to be. That was eight years ago.

Dodge Brothers latest bid for a complete and exclusive monopoly on public attention, so far as it pertains to the automotive industry, came on January 10, when they announced that they were about to make a substantial reduction in the price of their cars and then declined to tell what the prices would be.

The mere fact that they will not tell until Feb. 1 makes everyone want to know immediately.

J. M. Duncan, the Dodge Brothers dealer here, was commenting on the subject today, somewhat on the order of the foregoing paragraphs, when a voice on the telephone inquired, "if there wasn't a chance to get a little advance information on those prices." There were good reasons, the voice said, why the "tip" should be given out in this particular case, "and it would be sure to turn out to your advantage." But the dealer expressed his regrets and the voice reluctantly withdrew.

"That is the way it has been going ever since January 11," the dealer said. "I never appreciated what an intense interest there was in Dodge Brothers Motor Cars until this occurred. That fellow who just called probably wanted the information for some business reason, or maybe for sheer curiosity. Perhaps he had a bet up with someone. Anyhow, he refused to give his name. The great majority of those who call, however, leave their names and telephone numbers and on February 1 we are going to have a special staff busy calling all these people and giving them the real news.

"We prefer this method of making the new prices known because it avoids the possible confusion resulting from publication of 'F. O. B. Detroit' prices. There is no disposition on our part to make a mystery of it, once the price becomes known to us. But we have learned that local people are interested in local prices and that is what we are going to give them as soon as we can figure the amounts after we receive the information from the factory. In due time, of course, these local prices will be published, but in order to learn the amounts on the day of the announcement it will be necessary for interested parties to call at our salesrooms or leave their telephone numbers, so that we may call them.

"It is not difficult to see that we are going to have a big year, as a great percentage of these people who want to know about the price are in the market for a car. It became known at our annual meeting in New York that Dodge Brothers themselves anticipated an exceptional year and made preparations for it. They exhibited a motion picture in which some of these preparations were revealed. They have been working steadily all winter, you know, and will be fully prepared when the big rush comes—and the rush is only a few days distant now. This means that Dodge Brothers will soon be shipping more cars per day than ever before in their history.

"It has taken millions of dollars to finance this tremendous program of increased production, but everyone will soon see that it was an excellent investment."

While it was generally expected in the industry that Dodge Brothers would make a substantial cut, the unusual form of the announcement proved to be a veritable bombshell. At first glance it appeared to be a somewhat mysterious procedure but as the full significance of the announcement dawned on other manufacturers it was conceded that it was an exceptionally strategic move.

PREDICTS TRUCKS WILL AGAIN RESCUE RAILROADS

Prospects for future business expansion are so favorable that the railroads will soon be forced again to rely upon motor truck transportation as they did in the traffic jam of 1917-1920, in the opinion of A. J. Brosseau President of the Mack truck company and Secretary of the Natonal Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

In a recent address before the Shippers' Conference of Greater New York, Mr. Brosseau said, "Better general business conditions and more satisfactory results as a whole can be reasonably expected for this year than last. Bankers are entering the new year with considerably greater ease of mind than they felt at the opening of 1920, when they foresaw that an adjustment must come about. Now it appears that within a very short time the after war leveling process will be completed.

"It is not difficult to foresee the time when we shall again have delays of shipments, embargoes and blockades, and when motor trucks will again save the situation. They may also have the railroads from the same fate they so narrowly escaped durng the last traffic jam—permament ownership. I am glad to say that the motor truck has become an ally rather than a competitor of the railroads, making possible the permanent and intensive development of the long haul which is the logical and profitable field of railroad question. "The investment of the people in good roads is essentially a declaration of faith and vision in the prosperity and commercial prestige of our country. It was with the same foresight that the people through the Government at Washington, upon learning of the future inauguraton of such large ocean liners as the Olympia, the Titanic and the Majestic, saw to it that Ambrose Channel was deepened in order that those giant vessels might ply between New York and Europe. The channel was deepened, not merely for the benefit of these liners, but for the good of the nation's commerce in general. In just the same way good roads are built on land."

Staunton.—Miss Bane Hayter, for some time assistant home demonstration agent in Roanoke county, has arrived in Staunton to take up her duties as assistant to Miss Helen Teass, home demonstrator of Augusta. Miss Hayter who will remain here, it is understood, until the end of the school term, will assist Miss Teass chiefly in the girls' club work and will have entire charge of the sewing clubs in the rural schools.

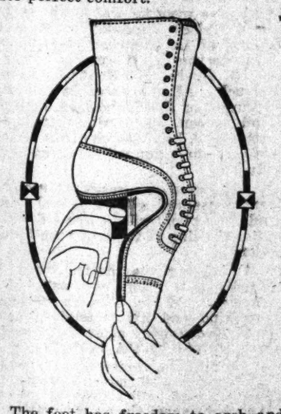
No Need to "Break Them in"

Cantilever Shoes are comfortable, easy, the first time you put them on! No need to "break them in" slowly and painfully. No need to suffer till the newness wears off. In Cantilevers your foot is not compelled to assume the shape of a shoe. For the Cantilever Shoe is shaped like the human foot. It is built on the lines of good taste—graceful, sensible. It is made for perfect comfort.



The foot has freedom to arch and bend, to move and exercise, unhampered. The shank of a Cantilever is not stiff and unyielding. It flexes with the action of the foot.

The natural inner sole line and the well-set heel combine to encourage correct posture. Ordinary shoes, which twist the toes outward, cause all the weight to fall on the inner side of the arch, its weakest point. But Cantilevers distribute the weight properly; they correct and prevent flat foot. They enable you to walk or stand with less fatigue. And they are good looking.

PAINS ACROSS SMALL OF BACK

Husband Helped in Housework.—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Strong

Foster, Oregon.—"I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for pains across the small of my back. They bothered me so badly that I could do my work only with the help of my husband. One day he saw the 'ad.' in our paper telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing for women, so I began to take it. It has helped me wonderfully. I am feeling fine, do all my housework and washing for seven in the family. I have been irregular too, and now am all right. I am telling my friends what it has done for me and am sure it will do good for others. You can use this letter as a testimonial. I will stand up for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound any time."—Mrs. WM. JUHNKE, Foster, Oregon.

Doing the housework for a family of seven is some task. If you, as a housewife, are troubled with backache, irregularities, are easily tired out and irritable, or have other disagreeable ailments caused by some weakness, give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. Let it help you.

FRANCE

When Mr. Crawford was appointed minister to France, his friends said he was a man of great patriotism, independence and spirit, and that in a short time after his arival in Paris, our long protracted negotiations with France would be brought to a conclusion of some kind;that he would not be trifled with, nor be put off by the imperial court. The excuses that the Emperor was at war—was going to visit the sea-ports—to be divorced—to be married—to christen a child—our ambassadors and rulers seen heretofore to have admitted as good apologies for Napoleon's not attending to our envoys and our complaints, and doing us justice. Mr. Crawford was represented as a man that would insist that the affairs of the United States were as important as any other subjects, and should either promptly receive the imperial attention or the neglect be resented. We have no dislike to Mr. Crawford. but we see he has done as little in three months as his predecessors did.

Mr. A. J. Rhoades will give a reading and Mr. Merrill Beagle will play the violin and Mr. Howard Beagle the saxophone.

Miss Julia Duncan's class will contribute some splendid numbers including a black face farce entitled, "Hanging Out The Wash."

Editor Gazette:
Dear Sir:—

Through your paper I would like to inform the girls who are contemplating entering the prize contest which is being offered by the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary and which is to be known as Miss Alexandria contest" of the "Put and Take" Bazaar, that the prizes which are offered are being selected with the very best of judgment and that they will be worthy of the very best efforts on the part of all contestants. The selections are being made by me under the supervision of George H. Railing, local manager of Castleberg's Jewelry Store, of 818 King street. The selections will be on exhibition in the windows of that store on Thursday, February 2.

I would also like to correct a statement published in the Gazette of yesterday's issue which had me as local manager of Castleberg's. I am a representative of that company in this city but George H. Railing is manager.

I shall be glad to see as many as may possibly do so enter this contest as it will be well worth the time of any girl and at the same time it will be of a great help to the needy ex-service men.

I would also advise all mothers to enter their babies in the baby contest. The prize for this contest will be a handsome loving cup which will also be on display with the other prizes.

Very respectfully yours,
J. E. Clegg
Senior Vice-Commander, V. F. W.

GIRLS! LEMON JUICE WHITENS RED HANDS

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, which any drug store will supply for a few cents, shake well and you have a quarter-pint of harmless and delightful lemon-bleach lotion to soften and whiten red, rough or chapped hands. This home-made lemon loction is far superior to glycerin and rose water to smoothen the skin. Famous stage beauties use it to bleach and bring that soft, clear, rosy-white complexion, because it doesnt irritate.

LIQUOR OWNERS GET ADVERSE RULING

Washington, D. ., Jan. 31.—Intoxicating liquors, stored in government bonded warehouses can not be withdrawn by the owners for their own personal use, the Supreme Court yesterday held in a decision delivered by Justice McKenna, and dissented to by Justice McReynolds. Such liquor can only be transported from the bonded warehouses, Justice McKenna stated, "to a wholesale druggist for sale to him for purposes not prohibited."

The court in a previous decision had held that owners could withdraw from private warehouses liquor for their own consumption or for use of their family or their bonafide guests. Yesterday's ruling marks a wide distinction between private and bonded warehouses.

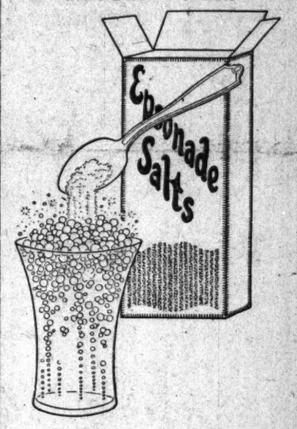
AH! EPSOM SALTS NOW LIKE LEMONADE

Pure Epsom Salts Combined with Fruit Derivative Salts



Enjoy all the splendid physic-action on the bowels of a dose of epsom salts without the awful taste and nausea. Ask any druggist for a handy package of "Epsonade Salts," the wonderful discovery of the American Epsom Association. Even children gladly take it.

CALOMEL SALIVATES EVEN WHEN CAREFUL

Treacherous Drug Can Not Be Trusted and Next Dose may start Trouble

Calomel is dangerous. It may salivate you and make you suffer fearfully from soreness of gums, tenderness of jaws and teeth, swollen tongue and excessive saliva dribbling from the mouth. Don't trust calomel. It is mercury; quicksilver.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomen. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great. No salts necessary. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and can not salviate.

A raw, biting wind whips half-frozen rain through bare branches and singing wires. The temperature has dropped and a cold, glittering crust covers city and countryside. You peer out of the window and shiver—"My, but it's an awful night—I'd hate to be out in this weather!" A bird's eye view of your community at such a time would give you an outside insight—a reason why your electric service is uninterrupted. You would see little figures—men they are — toiling 'cross country from one pole to another in an apparently aimless search. These "troubleshooters" are of the company. Their duty is to locate and repair wires pulled down by that most destructive element — sleet. This unceasing vigilance—this disregard for time and weather—is part of our creed. For only by serving well may we merit your hearty co-operation.

LEE MEMORIAL EXERCISE

Williamsburg, Va., Jan. 30.—Memorial exercises were held this morning at the College of William and Mary for General Robert E. Lee, with Charles Hillman Brough, of Little Rock, Arkansas, former Governor of that State, and present President of the Good Roads Association of America, as the speaker.

The address of Ex-Governor Brough was learned and eloquent and was received with enthusiasm by the students and faculty. He paid high tribute to the memory of the 'South's noblest son," declaring that Gen. Lee possessed the moral fibre of a Lincoln, a Grover Cleveland, a Theodore Roosevelt, and a Woodrow Wilson.

Lee's war career was a miracle of military history, the speaker stated, and his leadership of the South had done more for the majesty of the Federal Union that any other one thing. He said that when Marshal Foch was a professor of military tactics in the French army college the generalissmio of the allied armies taught the methods of General Lee and those of Napoleon ad models of military science. Lee was at the same time a conservative man the former governor said, and he cited Lee's acceptance of the Presidency of Washington College, now Washington and Lee University, at the close of the war, instead of the better paying positions that were offered him. Lee regarded his duty to the South as the education of its youth, Ex-Governor Brough said.

In the course of his address the speaker asserted that Jefferson, Lincoln and Woodrow Wilson although they were of different political beliefs. were at the same time the three greatest democrats in the history of this country. They were all three near the people, he said, and were each in turn repudiated by their countrymen on some great national issue, only to be vindicated in the end. Woodrow Wilson received the benediction of General Lee when the recent President was a boy, the speaker said.

WOODROW WILSON OPPOSED TO REMOVAL OF U. OF VA. MEDICAL SCHOOL

Charlottesville, Va., Dec. 30, 1921.—Ex-President Woodrow Wilson's Christmas gift to his Alma Mater, the University of Virginia, was a striking letter written December 25, in which he strongly voices his opposition to the proposal to remove the University's Medical Department to Richmond. The greatest experts in medical education have already recorded the same conviction and there are few, if any, eminent Americans in a better position than ex President Wilson to pass judgment on this important question or whose opinion will be more warmly welcomed and carry greater weight in Virginia.

The letter follows:

Washington, D. C., 25th Dec., 1921.

My dear Mr. Tilton:

I am very much obliged to you for the handbook which you were kind enough to send me with your letter of December twenty-first.

The question involved is of the deepest interest to me. I should deplore the removal of the Medical Department of the University of Virginia to Richmond as a very serious detriment to the University and also as a deplorable breach in the historical development of education in Virginia.

If the thing were done I should deplore it both as a wound to my pride as an alumnus of the University, and as distinctly contrary to my judgment as a student of education.

Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

Mr. McLane Tilton, Alumni Secretary,
University, Virginia.

PRAYERS FOR JOBS

Many unique schemes to help the jobless in various communities of late have been brought to the attention of President Harding's Conference on Unemployment, but none more novel than Philadelphia's—"Join the Drexel Biddle Bible Class and get a job."

The Bible Class meets every Sunday in the parish house of Holy Trinity Church. An employment bureau which functions remarkably well, according to figures furnished, is run by John A. Hawkey and Robert Bethel in conjunction with the class. Hawkey is a former pugilist and was bayonet instructor for the marines during the war. In the service he met Major Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, one of the foremost amateur exponents of the fistic art in the United States, who has taken on many a professional prize fighter in his day. But he gives up his Sundays to the service of the church.

A veteran of the war, Major Biddle cooperates with the American Legion in placing applicants for jobs. He has the promise of a long list of Philadelphia firms that they will give any man employment if sent with the Drexel Biddle endorsement.

Proof of the extraordinary success of the scheme is that the Bible Class has placed 271 applicants in jobs out of 299, and the good work is still going on.

"I take off my hat to the Drexel Biddle Bible Class," said Col. Arthur Woods, Chairman of the Emergency Committee of the Conference, today. "They are certainly living up to their slogan, "If a job isn't worth praying for, it isn't worth having."

MOVIES AND PUBLIC OPINION

Los Angeles, Jan. 31.—In order that Postmaster General Will H. Hays may have before him a full compendium of public opinion from all parts of the United States, when he steps into the harness on March 4 as leader of the film industry in America, Thomas H. Ince is rushing a tabulation of early returns of his his World Survey of the Motion Picture.

The survey was launched recently by Ince in an effort to feel the pulse beats of the public with relation to the motion picture and to find out what the public really wants. Thirty questions were included in the quiz which was sent to newspaper and magazine editors wherever films are exhibited.

Full tabulations of answers to the thirty questions will be placed in the hands of Postmaster Hays at the earliest possible moment, according to Ince, that he may have an opportunity of studying first hand the complete returns of editorial expressions on the vital phases of the motion industry.

"I believe that great truths will be revealed by this survey," Ince said. "Vital facts will be brought to light and sufficient grounds established for the formation of definite principles along which the industry can progress to an assured haven of greatest success."

"These compilations and broad deductions in the hands of Mr. Hays, may assist him in the gigantic task which he has undertaken and lighten his burden by presenting him with facts based upon the actual pulse beats of the public."

USE RADIOTELEPHONE TO SEND WEATHER FORECASTS AND WARNINGS

Beginning with January 16 the air mail radio station in the Post Office Department at Washington has been broadcasting weather forecasts and warnings of the Weather Bureau, United States Department of Agriculture, by radiotelephone instead of by radiotelegraph. These reports are sent out for the District of Columbia, Virginia, Maryland, West Virginia, eastern Pennsylvania, western Pennsylvania, and Ohio.

In sending out this information a wave length of 1,160 meters is used and all receiving instruments as far west as Ohio if properly keyed may be used to receive the reports which will be sent out at 10 a. m. and at 9:50 p. m. Experience has shown that the radiotelephone gives better and more rapid service than the radio telegraph.

HOME BEAUTIFUL

By DOROTHY ETHEL WALSH.

Even the Baby's Room Should Be Given Its Share of Cheer.

In considering the children's rooms as we have in my last two articles we must not forget the baby; or, to be more definite, the babiest baby of them all.

Junior just turned 6 and Mary going on 8 will give outward signs of their joy in happy surroundings. But the baby! Does it seem worth while to bother until he gets older and really seems to notice things?

Certainly it is. More than worth while. For let me reiterate that first impressions are important ones—and who has more first impressions than the baby? Those wondering eyes of his are drinking in his surroundings, and if those lack color interest his little mind won't form the right ideas about them at all.

For instance, what baby is going to know what a jolly old world this is anyway, if drab tans and grays are all he looks on while indoors? How can he discover how many happy funny things there are if no happy funny things appear within his range of vision?

Far different perhaps will be his philosophy of life when he grows older if now furniture painted a happy hue and jolly little ornaments are placed in his room. And the chances for optimism will be greatly increased, I believe, if his porridge bowl and plate are of bright blue china decorated with yellow chickens, as is that of the curly haired Miss in to-day's sketch.

A Wooden Window Picture Adds Colorful Note to Interior.

There was a fashion much in vogue a couple of decades ago of using stained glass pictures hung in the window so that the light could filter through their many hues.

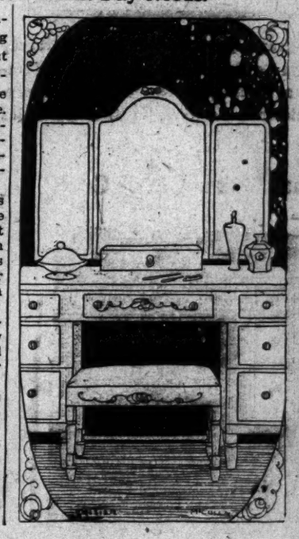
These articles, generally hung in the center of the lower sash, gave a decorative touch to any room. But, as with so many fashions, this one was on the wane many a long day ago, and to-day these pretty fancies are hard to procure.

The modern style of decoration has offered a substitute in an open work wooden panel, and although the light cannot shine through it and make blue and yellow patches on the walls and carpet, it is so brightly colored of itself that it serves as an excellent understudy to the glass.

In to-day's sketch the small child is enjoying one of these pictures, as would you, I am sure, if you could see the soft greens, lavnder and rose that make up its color composition.

If the view out your window is not particularly pleasing hang a decorative panel against the lower sash. Have it of a small size so as not to shut out any light, but simply break the outlook a little and bring color into it. The one sketched is of splendid dimensions for the size of the window.

Colors as Applied to Present Day Needs.



The manipulating of color in interior decorations makes a fascinating game. We cannot all be artists but we can appreciate art, and how doubly important it is that our eye be trained to appreciate art in the home.

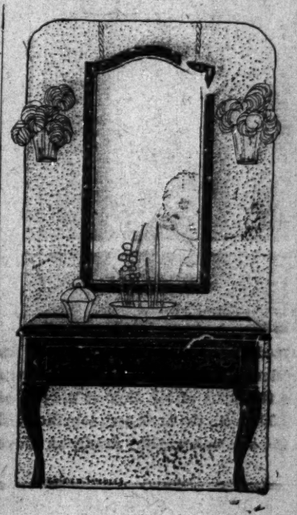
So closely are color combinations related to music that one with an appreciation of music should be as revolted at a discordant color combination as at one of music.

We would not tolerate the sounds from a boiler factory disturbing the tranquillity of our bedroom, and yet we will live day in and day out with color harmonies that were our eyes as sensitive to color harmonies as our ears to music, would revolt us much as the unpleasant noise.

It is because for long the art of interior decoration was known to so few that our eyes have become deadened to the reactions from discordant color combinations.

In to-day's sketch the artist has shown a delightful grouping of furniture, the color of which demonstrates my point. The dresser is a yellow peach color, the walls are wisteria and the upholstering on the bench is a deep violet. In my next article I will explain a simple way to go about selecting color schemes.

Feathers Compete With Flowers as Home Decorations.



It seems as though Mother Goose has been plucking a great many feathers lately. And no longer do they only make snow material, but the fluffy bits have blown right into the house and now may be found doing duty as sofa pillow covers and as substitutes to flowers. To-day I want to tell you how they may be made part of side light shades.

A wire frame in the shape of a basket, cut in a half section, is made to fit over a flat wall fixture. This is covered in the same way as any silk or chiffon lamp shade is. At the top several colored ostrich tips are placed so as to appear as though coming from the basket. The light will shine through the silk shade and up through the colored feathers. The effect is most pleasing.

Ostrich tips may also be used on a band as a curtain holder. Make the straight band of the same material as the curtains and group three tips in the center so they will be located as are generally the rosette or flowers customarily seen.

These feathers I refer to are not those found in the millinery departments, but a much cheaper variety, which, although colored well, lend themselves better to decoration than to personal adornment.

They left their home on a brand-new bicycle that Merton had received for Christmas, the young miss riding on the handlebars. By this method they reached Findlay, where Merton sold his $50 bike for $25 and then they travelled by trolley to Dayton. From Dayton they travelled to Sadieville, Kentucky. By this time the papers had a story of their disappearance, with an accurate description of the pair and this was their undoing. They visited a store to purchase some food, and the storekeeper suspected them of being the pair. He measured them with a yardstick, and then they gave up. He turned them to a Deputy Sheriff, who notified the parents. They were put up at a private home over night, and the following morning an auto, with Anna's uncle came and brought them back home.
